

Late Afternoon at Herring Cove (close-up)

432 Commercial Street • Provincetown MA 02657
508.487.0915

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
Art Exhibit

Joe Trepiccione:
Lands End

When: August 26 – September 8, 2011
Gallery hours: Daily
Reception: Friday, August 26, 2011 7:00 – 9:00 pm

Contact: Hutson Gallery, 508-487-0915
Mary Feeley, Director - hutsongallery@gmail.com

Hutson Gallery is pleased to announce the fifth summer exhibition in our fourth season featuring a duo show with recent paintings and sculpture by Harry Folsom and paintings by Joe Trepiccione.

Lands End where land meets sky has always had a mysterious draw. Writers and poets, painters and photographers have traveled to the end of Cape Cod in search of inspiration. In this exhibit Joe Trepiccione creates the beauty of the National Seashore in oil on canvas.

“As a landscape painter, I know when I first arrived in the promised land, in the late 70's, that I wanted to be part of this special place, to have my roots transplanted here. I knew I wanted to live the rest of my life surrounded by creativity and positive energy.”

“For the last few months I have been re-inspired by the celebration of the 50th anniversary of the National Seashore, with its 'Forty miles of pristine sandy beach, marshes, ponds, and uplands... lighthouses, cultural landscapes, and wild cranberry bogs (that) offer a glimpse of Cape Cod's past and continuing ways of life.”

Joe Trepiccione graduated from Paier College of Art / The Whitney School of Art, New Haven, Ct., where he studied the classic arts and specialized in the field of children's book illustration. Joe lives and works in Charlestown, MA, and his studio, Trepiccione Design, Inc., produces graphic design, illustration, and concepts for special events. He is a founding member of the Artists' Group of Charlestown, Inc. and the Stove Factory Gallery and Studios; and also an active member of the Provincetown Art Association and Museum.